

Old Field Preserve

The Old Field Preserve consists of 100 acres of trails open to hiking and horseback riding. Formerly part of the Van Cortlandt Manor, in 1776 Enoch Mead settled and farmed the land until 1974. The Preserve was created in 2003 and is currently owned by the Town of Lewisboro and Westchester County with a conservation easement held by the Westchester Land Trust. The Old Field Preserve derives its name from the five fields, at various stages of succession, that it encompasses. The trail is about 2.5 miles.

Level

Easy, with some rough wet areas.

Directions

Route 35 to Mead Street. Old Field Preserve is located .5 miles on the right, opposite Schoolhouse Road. Park up the hill next to the kiosk or in the Town Park.

Supporting Documents

Old Field Preserve Trail Map 5.95 MB